

I just discovered the concrete walls on the north side of the park this past week - it was the first time I'd been there. It's perfect for hitting tennis balls off of - I'm going to be playing high school tennis next year.
the view.
Big sports field for baseball and games
Playground and field close to each other.
Good play equipment
The loop around the Play field for walking and kids to ride bikes. I can have my elderly mom walking at a slower pace while the little ones ride their bikes and be able to see everyone clearly while we are at different pace. Please, please, please do not remove that feature
It is a good, varied walking workout, with the steep hill that has a great view at the top.
Track for bike riding/walking. Open grass, play structures.
Walking area
Walking loop.
wide walking paths, variety of activities
I like that along with a playground there is a nice trail, a large field and some little trails through the trees. It's dynamic - I prefer parks like these over just playgrounds. Oh, and there's a decent bathroom!
It is close to home and has a nice walking track.
I like the trail around the perimeter, and the bathrooms are a convenience. However, I would never go into the bathrooms if I were alone.
I grew up in this park I learned to play tennis on the courts there and remember the merry go round and the big brown twisty slide. Now I take my niece Nephews and girlfriends children there it is like re watching my child hood
Play area for children
Its close to home and I can walk my dog around the track or go up the hill in the back.
Swings, trail, view, bball courts
